Investment Universe and Investment Objectives

ISIN: LU1506617494

NAV 114.61

The investment objective of the Sub-Fund is to seek long-term capital growth and income by investing in a debt portfolio of fixed/floating income instruments. The investment manager will select debt securities or issuers to build a portfolio with an overall average credit quality of investment grade. In order to reach its objective, the Sub-Fund will mainly invest in debt instruments (public and corporate issuers, short/long maturity bonds, fixed/variable rate securities, senior/subordinated debt, inflation-linked securities, perpetual bonds, investment grade/high yield bonds, convertible bonds), money market Instruments, cash and cash equivalents.

The past performance is not an indicator of future returns. The return of the fund may go down as well as up due to changes in rates of exchange between currencies. Future performance is subject to taxation which depends on the personal situation of each investor and which may change in the future.

The Weisshorn Global Bond fund is a long term Fixed Income investment vehicle suitable for long term investors (5-year minimum holding horizon). The actual risk can vary significantly if your cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. The essential risks of the investment fund lie in the possibility of depreciation of the securities in which the fund is invested.

Review

The Weisshorn Global Bond Fund returned +1.3% in November in EUR terms (YTD +4.3%), +1.39% in USD (YTD +5.7%) and +1.1% in CHF (YTD +1.7%).

Bond markets were well supported during the month. Yields initially rose following the election of Donald Trump as the 47th president of the USA but ended the month some 11 bps lower in the US, 30 bps lower in Europe and 16 bps lower in Switzerland ending the month at respectively 4.17%, 2.09% and 0.25%. Corporate spreads tightened by 6 bps in the US and widened marginally in Europe. Long-dated bonds outperformed short-dated ones, while the European market outperformed the US.

In terms of contribution, the sovereign exposure performed best. The EU 0.7% 2051 delivered 6.5% contributing 13 bps alone, US Treasuries delivered approximately 4% contributing 30 bps while European sovereigns were up by 2% contributing 23 bps. Corporate hybrids and AT1 performed well on the back of a risk-friendly environment contributing 35 bps.

Both the Fed and BoE cut interest rates by 25 bps in November (there was no ECB meeting in November). US October headline inflation rose to 2.6% yoy (previous 2.4%), core PCE increased by 2.8% yoy (previous 2.7%). On this side of the Atlantic, European November inflation was 2.3% yoy (previous 2%), core remained unchanged at 2.7%, while Swiss inflation remained well within target at 0.7% (previous 0.6%).

Outlook & Positioning

We made a few changes to our strategy in November. First, we increased our allocation to US Treasuries because we believe the belly of the curve is attractive at current levels. Second, we reduced our exposure to financials by selling HSBC AT1 on very tight spreads and by accepting a repurchase offer of LBBW4% Perpetual bond, thereby realizing a 25% profit since we increased our allocation in early March. Finally, we participated in two new corporate hybrid issues from TotalEnergies and Iberdrola. In this process, we increased the quality of the underlying portfolio by improving the rating, increasing the sovereign exposure and broadening sector diversification.

Otherwise, we haven't made any significant changes on the duration side. We are cognizant that bond markets are subject to some political uncertainty but remain focused on the underlying fundamentals of generally falling inflation and softer growth which should allow central banks to continue cutting rates in the quarters ahead, thereby supporting bond markets.
