The markets were rocked in March. In the US, President Trump's various statements blew hot and cold. More tariffs have been announced and the countries affected have begun to respond, which could mean the start of a Global Trade War. At the time of writing, Mr. Trump has already given his Liberation Day speech, we're aware of the tariffs that will be imposed, but we'll wait until the next monthly commentary to talk about them. Unsure of how these taxes will impact the US economy, equity markets corrected as inflation expectations rose while growth expectations fell. Against this backdrop, the S&P 500 fell 5.6%, while the gap between Europe and the US widened, with the Stoxx 600 down only 3.7%. The diversification effect enabled the Weisshorn Balanced Fund to limit the damage. The fund returned -0.43% in March and has posted a performance of +3.24% since the beginning of the year.

Although Mr. Trump's announcements were the factor with the greatest impact on the markets, the Central Banks also had their meeting and played their part. The SNB continued to cut rates, now reaching 0.25%, the ECB also cut rates by 25 basis points, while the FED, operating in a more than uncertain context, decided to keep rates at the same levels.

In the US, although analysts fear for growth, interest rates remained relatively stable, with the 2-year falling slightly and the 10-year remaining at the same levels. Credit spreads remained almost unchanged on the Investment Grade side, while on the High Yield side, spreads rebounded slightly, although they are still a long way from levels that might be considered worrying. In Europe, it's a different story. After the elections in Germany, the new government passed a EUR 500Bn spending plan to support the Defense and Energy Transition sectors. This massive spending plan pushed rates up, although they gave back some of this rise at the end of the month. Credit spreads in Europe remained almost unchanged, demonstrating a degree of investor confidence.

Although the contribution from Equities was negative in March (-36 bps), performance within this pocket was mixed. On the one hand, the Defense sector, such as Leonardo (+16.3% over the month), and Financials, such as Hannover Re (+7.2%), contributed positively. On the other hand, growth sectors and companies potentially impacted by US tariffs dragged down performance. Our exposure to Commodities, which includes Gold and Copper representing around 7% of assets, enabled us to limit the damage (+30 bps).

Our allocation remained unchanged from last month. We reduced our exposure to Leonardo and Hannover Re to take some profits and reinvested the proceeds from matured bonds, favoring medium durations.
