Rating Breakdown

The markets were rocked in March. In the US, President Trump's various statements blew hot and cold. More tariffs have been announced, and the countries affected have begun to respond, which could mean the start of a Global Trade War. Unsure of how these taxes will impact the US economy, equity markets corrected as inflation expectations rose while growth expectations fell. Against this backdrop, Uncertainty is at its peak. The Weisshorn Global Bond Fund returned -1.02% in March, bringing its annual performance to +0.13%.

Mr. Trump's announcements were the major contributor to the uncertainty; the Central Banks tried to remain calm and measured. The SNB cut rates, now reaching 0.25%, similar to the ECB, which also cut rates by 25 basis points to 2.5% from 2.75%, while the FED, which remains unsure about the inflation path, decided to leave its policy rate unchanged.

In the US, economic growth is at risk of slowing down significantly. Interest rates remained stable in March, with the 2-year Treasury falling slightly and the 10-year remaining at the same level at 4.25%. Corporate credit spreads remained almost unchanged, while High Yield spreads widened slightly, although they are still a long way from levels that might be considered worrying. In Europe, Germany is making History. The government passed a EUR 500 Bn spending plan to support the Defense and Energy Transition sectors, and eased its debt brake. This massive spending plan pushed government rates up, although they gave back some of their gains at the end of the month. European Credit spreads remained almost unchanged, illustrating a degree of investor confidence.

European bond holdings were the main detractor from performance. Germany's change of stance on public deficits and debt is a game-changer. We expect it will push long-term government rates higher in the foreseeable future, especially if the European economy picks up despite the current economic uncertainties. US rates remained stable. Central banks are dovish. The ECB would be keen to continue cutting rates, but is aware of the inflationary pressure in place due to the lack of international cooperation between economic zones. The FED is under pressure from the White House to cut rates, and one can expect J. Powell to bow, despite the worsening US inflation outlook. European duration increased last month through new sovereign positions. Credit spreads will widen with the US economic slowdown, which could end up in a recession. Nevertheless, like in Europe, the private sector is sound, and there is no need to deleverage. Long-duration sovereign bonds remain favored when there are reinvestments. The duration of the funds stands at 5.08.
